IRRIGATION PROVES GRAVEST PROBLEM OF THE VAST WEST

Government Doing a Great Work in Development of the Arid Desert Tracts.

Construction of Dams and Reservoirs Precedes Coming of Scientific Farming.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

ENGLE, New Mexico, Nov. 22.—In this dry country water has always been the most precious commodity. In the early days, to the wandering hunter and prospector it meant the difference between life and death. To the farmer today it means the difference between a living and bankruptcy. "The most successful farmer in these western irrigation valleys has always been the man who could make a little water go a long way. Now they have more water stored behind the New Elephant Butte dam than has ever been stored under the control of man in one reservoir before. There are 858 billion gallons of it. When the 45-mile lake with its 200-mile shore-line is full, it will hold enough water to cover the state of Delaware two feet deep. These billions of gallons are as much under control as the water in a kitchen faucet. Their flow can be turned on and off like the water that fills the garden hose.

Here, where water is the great essential often lacking to successful farming, sometimes even to life itself, this immense quantity of captured and controlled water ought to result in immense changes.

In the first place the completion of the dam marks the end of inter-state and international quarrels centuries old. There were diplomatic problems of engineering to be solved in the construction. It was necessary to pass special national legislation to satisfy the conflicting claims of New Mexico and Texas to the precious flow of the Rio Grande; and a special treaty with old Mexico had to be ratified, and provision made for a proper share of the stored waters to the Old Mexican farmers across the boundary.

It is the plan under which reclamation projects are built that the farmers who use the waters stored by a dam eventually pay for the building of that dam. In the case of this dam at Elephant Butte a certain amount of water will be used by farmers in Old Mexico. The American farmers in New Mexico and Texas could not be expected to pay for the entire cost under such circumstances, so congress had to appropriate $1,000,000 to apply on the cost of the construction work, a sum sufficient to cover the pro rata share of the Old Mexican lands which will benefit. Over 25,000 acres of Old Mexican lands will be irrigated with water from this American reservoir. In spite of our troubles with Mexico there has never been any suggestion that this country might fail to carry out her agreement in the matter, although the flow of the Rio Grande is now absolutely controlled at Elephant Butte.

Texas lands presented another technical and diplomatic problem. New Mexicans and Texans had long been quarreling over water rights. In fact, this subject has always been a fruitful source of trouble in the southwest, where you can cause your neighbor to lose his entire season's crop if you happen to live higher up the river than he does, simply by dropping the little wooden "gate" that blocks the main ditch, and thus keep the waters from ever reaching his land. New Mexico and Texas had never been able to agree on the exact share of the river waters each was entitled to. A government engineer succeeded in adjudicating the point to the satisfaction of everybody, and they say it was almost as big a contract as building the dam.

Another complication arose out of the text of the reclamation act itself. The act was designed to reclaim arid desert lands. There have never been any public lands in Texas—no land, that is, which belonged to the federal government. This is due to the peculiar circumstances under which Texas entered the union. The other western states were carved out of national property. Texas entered as a full-fledged commonwealth, and one result of this was the fact that she was technically not entitled to the benefit of reclamation projects. But she owned a right to a share of the Rio Grande waters. Hence it became necessary to pass special laws to meet the situation.

Besides the 25,000 acres in Old Mexico, the new dam will furnish water for 110,000 acres in New Mexico and 45,000 acres in Texas—a total of 155,000 acres on American soil. Taking the average size of the individual holding on irrigated land at 40 acres, there is room for 4000 families to find land and water under the dam.

Very little of this 155,000 acre tract is open to public entry, however. This Rio Grande valley is probably the oldest cultivated valley in America. The Spaniards were established here before Jamestown was founded, or the Mayflower cast her lines over Plymouth Rock. As a result, all of these irrigable lands were included in Spanish land grants, made with a free hand by the King of Spain to his gallant gentlemen. When the territory came into American possession, these land titles were still recognized as valid. While the lands have changed hands many scores of times, they have never gotten out of private ownership, and all of them that will be irrigated by the new project are in private ownership today, with the insignificant exception of some four or five thousand acres that were so dry in the past that nobody thought it worth while to take them up. These latter become desirable land now that water is available, but they are only a small fraction of the whole.

At first blink, it might seem that Uncle Sam has spent $5,000,000 on his new dam chiefly for the benefit of a few big private owners. But not so. Your Uncle Samuel has seen to the rights of the nation at large.

Before the dam was built, the big owners whose lands will be benefited were carefully canvassed, and the work was not undertaken until a large majority of them had pledged themselves to cut their lands up into small holdings and sell these holdings at reasonable prices. Moreover, there is a rule that no one man can get after more than 160 acres. If he owns half a county, he can only irrigate one quarter-section in it, and thereby he is forced to sell the rest. Strenuous efforts are being made, not only by the reclamation service but by the land-owners themselves, to make sure that none of the land goes to speculators, and that the new settler shall not be overcharged. The land-owner sees the proposition somewhat in this fashion: He has a large amount of land for sale; if he sells a little of it at high prices, the buyer will have so little money left that the chances are he will fail. Thus the project acquires a bad name, and the owner can't sell the rest of his land at all.

This condition as well as the pledges secured by the reclamation service operate to keep prices at a fair level. In order to prevent the holding of land for some years until the valley is more settled and prices are correspondingly higher, the Reclamation service has the legal right to sell lands under the project at public auction if the owner does not dispose of them within a given length of time. Thus while there is little land to be had free under the new dam, there are many thousands of acres which will be sold to new settlers at fair prices. The productivity of the valley will be increased enormously; the land will support many thousand additional people on its surface, and the crops they raise will give food to as many thousand more. The Elephant Butte dam stands for a new and permanent national asset.

OLD NEW ORLEANS.

A foreign nobleman who recently paid a visit to the United States was giving his impressions of some of our principal cities. Most foreigners of position who visit us write a book in which they analyze American democracy condemn American art and settle American problems; but this gentleman was more considerate and confined his comments to conversation. "New York amazes one," said he; "Chicago compels admiration; some of the more western cities appeal to the sense of humor, but it is only New Orleans which can awake love."

This particular nobleman was French, and hence old New Orleans was particularly calculated to appeal to his sympathies, but a comment more or less similar comes from many a stranger who visits the United States. The charm of New Orleans resides more particularly in the old French quarter. These intimate, narrow streets delight the artist with their picturesque qualities, attract the adventurous with their hint of the unusual, and make the every-day traveler comfortable with the air of friendliness they wear.

The old-time French section, with its balconied houses, its neat gardens and its big square paving-blocks, has a charm of the spirit and a fragrance of antiquity, but it has also a charm more corporeal and a fragrance no less alluring of another sort. These last are the charm and the fragrance of food in the cooking. Cooking is too ro-saic a word to be applied to the whatever dim arts are used in the production of the finished dishes of French New Orleans, but it is the best the language affords and must needs serve.

When someone tells you that he is in love with New Orleans, with its soft airs and flowers, its kindly ways and colorful life, do not be too hasty and put that man down for an artistic spirit. Assume a carefully careless expression and ask him where he eats his meals. If he gives you the name of a little breakfast-room that cooks nothing but breakfasts and puts up the shutters at noon; if he mentions a certain cafe where the guests sit and talk from five to nine, and they serve a certain melon packed with a certain ice cream—then you may regard him with doubt. Perhaps he was partly captured by artistic atmosphere. But not entirely.

Two Suspects Are Held on Suspicion Following the Crow Dinner Last Night.

Police Judge Mullen Finds Evidence Insufficient and Dismisses Both the Cases.

COLUMBUS GROVE, O., Nov. 21.

Two men, who were among those to whom tickets "For Standing Room Only" were sold at the Crow dinner last night, were later arrested at the hotel here, and a charge of suspicion was placed after their names. Police Judge Levi Mullen was called from his bed at 2 o'clock this morning to hold court, that the cases might be disposed of. The men were anxious to leave town. Evidence was not sufficient to convict the men, although pocket-books and other small valuables of a number of men who attended the Crow dinner, were missing. Judge Mullen dismissed the offenders and they left for Leipsic at once.

VETERAN 103 YEARS OLD PLEADS GUILTY IN COURT

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 21.—Probably the oldest prisoner ever arraigned before any bar of justice pleaded guilty to selling liquor here. He is George Ambler and was born in Russia 103 years ago. Ambler served 15 years in the Russian army, fighting all through the Crimean war. He came to this country when he was 70. Still a powerful man, he worked in the mines at Elderton for ten years until he was caught by a cavein. His back was broken but his wonderful constitution pulled him through and he finally became able to get around. For many years he has practically been a public charge but when Jefferson county went dry, he came into a new source of livelihood. His arrest for selling liquor followed. Judge Corbet committed the aged prisoner to the county home.

THE AEROPLANE

The remarkable record of Miss Ruth Law, a young woman with a penchant for flying, in making a one-stop trip from Chicago to New York in several hours less time than is required by the speediest express trains which ply between the two cities, sets a new mark in aviation. Not only is she the pioneer of her sex in the more arduous class of the science, but her ability to get a hundred miles an hour out of an old-fashioned biplane will provide aircraft constructors with a neat problem.

Miss Law did not have the latest model German Fokker or French Voisin. Her vehicle was built along the lines first utilized by the Wright brothers of Dayton, with a motor of equal antiquity. Yet the speed with which she descended from Binghamton to Governor's Island furnishes the most skillful of the European war aviators with a lesson on the principles advocated ten years ago by Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Recent developments in Europe, since Blériot's first flight across the Channel, at least, have been toward the monoplane, the scarcity of material in war times contributing to the movement. Their speed is enormous, their handling easy, the control being well adapted to the working of a machine gun. But for ordinary travel, especially in the case of long cross-country flights, the old Wright biplane has been vindicated by the achievement of Miss Law. Her first lap was from Chicago to Hornell, New York, a distance of 590 miles, without a stop. And she now declares that she will soon carry out her first intention of making the entire trip from Lincoln Park to the Upper Bay without as much as shutting down the motor.

If she succeeds her place as a great figure in the development of the art of flying will be secured. She has already established a landmark in the history of aviation.

OFFICIALS BLAMED

Property owners are again kicking about the amount assessed for paving in front of their real estate. After delving into the case it is seen that the protest is merited and that Mr. Citizen is getting the worst of it.

It seems that the present city administration allowed the county commissioners to pull the wool over their eyes in a manner that is ludicrous to the extreme. The result is that Mr. Citizen is forced to stand the cost of certain work that the county should have paid.

The investigation following the protest of the disgruntled property owners did not result in anything favorable to the parties that protested over the assessment, but did plainly show the inefficiency of the city departments in allowing the county to squeeze through the paving of the road with but a nominal expense.

Since the county's apportioned expense of the paving is paid from the city's portion of the road tax, it is plain that Mr. Citizen is getting stung, as in addition to paying his rightful assessment he makes up the deficit that should have been paid by the county.

Under the law in vogue for many years in regard to the paving of roads in the city, it is necessary that the county pave 18 feet of the highway. If the road is covered with paving more than 18 feet wide it is also necessary that the county pay for the reinforcing this wide.

THE BIGGEST MEN

Who are the biggest men in the world? This question was asked by one of a gathering of men recently. The inquiry brought a look of wonder to the faces of all present. "If you don't know, I'll tell you," said the speaker. "The biggest men in the world are just such fellows as you meet in the every day business world of your city who are 'doing things'. Many men are big financially, and gain such reputation, but in fact possess wealth that has been handed down to them, and as a result they retire from 'doing things'."

This is not true of all big financial men, for in fact the great majority of them today are active. Their efforts are expended in endeavoring to do things "worth while", bettering the condition of their fellow workers, the men who are helping them in accomplishing big things.

The man who is able to plan and devise means for providing work under favorable conditions is the important factor of today. It matters not whether his enterprise means a place for ten or a thousand to find favorable occupation, he is the fellow who makes our country what it is, the leading nation of the world.

A boy hunting rabbits in New Jersey shot his sister, thereby escaping the long jail sentence that would have been imposed on him if he'd shot a rabbit.

Maybe if there isn't enough money left in the G. O. P. treasury to pay for that telegram of congratulations from Mr. Hughes, Tumulty will pay for it when he gets it.

The fondness of the voters for Old Bill Taft is shown by the fact that they put him out of his misery by 9 o'clock on election night.

If things keep on going this way, Maine will soon be the only state in the Union where a man is sure of getting a drunk when he wants it.

Every time Mackensen retreats it usually turns out that he has merely gone home to get his rifle.

The Old Guard seems to have surrendered again.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 21.—With nearly 500 women in attendance the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage association opened here today. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw is one of the notable national suffrage workers in attendance.

Local Mrs. Clifford Pinchot and Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college.

The principal business of the convention is the planning of the fight before the next state legislature for another referendum on the suffrage amendment. The legislative committee conducted an active pre-election campaign and reported today they have pledges of support from a large percentage of legislators elected at the recent election. It was announced at the opening session today that the slogan of the Pennsylvania suffragists has been changed from "votes for women" to "ballots for both". The convention will close Friday.

Calf Love Is Harmless Provided It Doesn't Result In Marriage

But if it Does, Says Dorothy Dix, the Victims of the Erratic Fancies of Adolescence Usually Grow Farther Apart as Time Goes On, and Soon the World Has Another Unhappy Marriage to Talk About.

By DOROTHY DIX.

A YOUTH OF the tender age of 18 writes to me that he is desperately in love with a woman five years his senior, and asks my opinion of the propriety of engaging himself to the lady. Don't do it, son!

Calf love is as passing an ailment as the mumps or measles. It's just a hectic fever, mighty engrossing and worrying while it lasts, but in a week or two, with proper treatment, it will all be over and you will be well again.

It isn't a chronic complaint, like a lesion of the heart, from which one never recovers.

There are plenty of chances in matrimony, son, without taking any chance on what you are going to be and like yourself when you grow up. Therefore, give yourself the benefit of the doubt. Don't tie a knot with your tongue, while you are still a mere infant in arms, that will take heartbreaks and shame and divorce lawyers to untie when you arrive at man's estate, and find out what sort of a wife you really want and need.

Of course, you say that you are very mature for your age, that you have seen a lot of the world, and are "wise," and all the balance of it, but it isn't true.

Every boy that ever lived thought and said the same thing. A half-dozen years later he looks back and laughs at his folly, and wonders what on earth he ever could have seen in that brainless little chit, Susie Brown, or that heavy weight, Marian Jones, that could have made him even fancy he was in love with her.

And then he fetches a prayer of thanksgiving that he didn't marry her, while a cold shudder chases up and down his spine as he thinks just supposing he had!

For a man's taste in women changes and the feminine charms that attracted him in his boyhood no more appeal to him in his maturity than do the plunk ice cream and chocolate soda water for which his soul used to hunger in his youth. On the contrary, they both give him that same sick, sinking feeling of having had enough and too much.

There are no more pitiful tragedies in the world, son, than those in which high-minded, generous-hearted, romantic boys fall victims to their delusions about being in love. For, look you! You are not the first lad who ever thought himself in love, and the mere fact that you are in love with a woman five years older than yourself proves your case typical.

Practically every boy that ever lived has been through the same experience, for the minute a youth finds out that his pulses can flutter, and gets to the place where he can distinguish between a pretty woman and an old one, he diagnoses his case as one of undying affection. Sometimes there is one to stretch out a saving hand and keep him from committing suicide by marrying while he is under this hallucination, and he lays upon shoulders too weak and young to bear it, the heavy load of matrimony. If he is poor, by that act he seals his doom, for he can never get ahead with a family to support, and you will find him, except in rare cases, an old, worn-out, broken-down man at 45.

The boy who marries also takes a 100 to 1 shot at domestic happiness, because he risks his own development. The woman he marries may be good enough and intelligent enough, and cultivated enough for his mate when he is only a crude, raw quail, but what if he grows, as so many men do, into a beautiful swan, with wide, strong wings, capable of soaring into the upper air? Observe the people you know.

son. Do you think that Jones, with his broad, tolerant outlook on life and his culture and his charm, would have married that stupid little Mrs. Jones if he had waited until he came to himself?

Would Smith, who is so brilliant a conversationalist abroad, who is the wit and toast of every dinner table but his own, but who rarely speaks at home, have married Mrs. Smith, who never understands a word he says, and who does not take the slightest interest in anything but clothes and servants, if he had waited until he knew what sort of a comrade he needed in life?

No, no! You know they wouldn't. And, worse still, they know they wouldn't.

Nine-tenths of the matrimonial misery is the direct result of early marriage. It is the boy husband who becomes the middle-aged rounder.

The French have a proverb that the roue makes the best husband. This is not because he has seen and known the wickedness of the world, but because he is old enough when he marries to have reached his own mental stature and knows what he wants in a wife.

Matrimony is none too certain a game anyway, son; but if you sit into it while you are still a boy, fate loads the dice with which you play, and you haven't a chance in a million to win out.

Becoming engaged while you are still a boy is scarcely less hazardous. What generally happens in a long engagement is that the poetry of it gets tarnished, the fire and thrill peter out, and even its sentiment gets moth-eaten and dingy. It is a burden on the man and a cruel injustice to the girl, and no man has any business asking a woman to marry him until he can also set the wedding day.

The young boy who asks a girl to wait for him while he goes out into the world to make his fortune can only justify his foolhardiness by his youth. He is so young he does not realize what he is doing. If he is honorable, he is trying himself down for life before he has even begun to live; and if he is dishonorable, he is wantonly sacrificing a woman's life.

The boy goes out into the great university of life. He learns, grows, develops, changes from boy to man.

He comes to belong to another world than that of his early love, but some day he knows that he must go back and make good on that engagement. His love has flickered and gone out. His heart may even be another's.

If he has the courage, he tells the girl that he has outgrown his boyish affection, and there is one more sour old maid in the world, a woman who has been defrauded of her springtime of love and happiness by waiting on a vain hope.

If he lacks the courage, and is of the stuff that martyrs are made of, he goes back and keeps his troth, and marries the girl, and both are miserable ever after.

So, son, pass up the early engagement! Pledge it as you would the pestilence, and take this as an additional straight tip: Any woman of 22 who would be willing to engage herself to a boy of 18 is a candidate for the feeble-minded asylum. There is something wrong with her thinks

A tremendous amount of fur is to be worn on all occasions this season and as a result comes this scarf of badger fur which winds about the shoulders and the waistline twice. Of particular note is the "cuffed glove" with its odd design and edge of fur. The tall hat of tan velvet, is also fur trimmed, the odd wing arrangement accounting its height.

Stomach Troubles.
Persons who have stomach trouble are apt to become discouraged. They will see by the following that their chances of recovery are excellent. A. K. Williams, Independence, Va., tells of a remarkable cure that was effected in that vicinity. One of his customers was so badly afflicted with stomach trouble that he was sent to a hospital, but received little benefit and came home to die. Mr. Williams suggested that he try Chamberlain's Tablets which he did, and today he is a well man and weighs 175 pounds. Obtainable everywhere. m-w-1

GIVES UP HER CHILDREN SO THEY MAY GET BIG FORTUNE

MRS. FRANCES SNOW DU BOST

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Sacrificing her mother love in order that her children Dorothy, 19, and Elbridge Gerry Snow, 17, may inherit the vast fortunes of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Gerry Snow, Mrs. Frances Snow Du Bost has given up her control over them.

News of this action came to light in the supreme court through the abandonment of an appeal taken by the children's father, Elbridge Gerry Snow, 2d. He had spent more than $20,000 perfecting his appeal from the supreme court's order giving the custody of the children to the mother, who divorced him in 1904, subsequently becoming Mrs. Du Bost. The appeal was withdrawn from the appellate division of the supreme court with the consent of Mrs. Du Bost.

SOCIETY SCHOOLGIRLS TO BE OWN MONITORS

DENVER COLO., Nov. 22.—Imagine a school girl "snitching" on herself! It takes some stretch of imagination, but then it is really being done these days. The girls of the Wolcott school, patronized by the most fashionable families of the west, have adopted the "snitching system" and they term it "student government." It has just gone into effect and is expected to improve the discipline of the little children of the rich.

The idea originated with Miss Phyllis Campion, daughter of John F. Campion, multi-millionaire mining man who died recently, and Miss Rosale Stearns, daughter of T. B. Stearns, president of the Denver Chamber of Commerce.

When it was suggested to Dr. J. D. S. Riggs, president of the school, he lost no time in adopting it.

"Student government" will lift many burdens from the shoulders of the teachers, giving the student body authority to inflict punishment on those who violate any of the rules of the system.

In the senior department a young woman is compelled to make it known to the "consular board" of the system when she has neglected to tidy her books or in other ways has violated the rules.

Keep Your Bowels Regular.

181,000,000 BUSHELS BLACK RUST WHEAT LOSS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Black rust caused wheat growers this year a loss of 181,000,000 bushels and was responsible for the lowest yield per acre of spring wheat ever recorded by the department of agriculture.

In Minnesota the damage was equivalent to 10.8 bushels per acre, representing a loss of $41,000,000 upon the basis of $1 per bushel. In North Dakota the damage amounted to 13.1 bushels per acre, or an estimated loss of $92,000,000. Nebraska farmers suffered a loss of $2,000,000. South Dakota growers lost $44,000,000.

Girls, how fast can you dress? Mrs. William G. Meadood, the president's daughter and wife of Secretary of the Treasury Meadood, claims the record, with 20 minutes. She is challenged, however, by Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Jr., of Chicago, who asserts her best record in the hook and eye battle has been 13 minutes.

"Once upon a time," said Mrs. Harrison, "I bathed and dressed in 13 minutes. Thirty minutes is a good average period for dressing in the morning. However, 29 minutes is exceptionally good."

Ottawa And Grace To Battle Tonight

(By "REID")
The second game of the local basketball season will be given to the fans at the Grace Church gym tonight when the Grace quintet stack up against a fast team from Ottawa. A preliminary contest between the Grace second team and a picked team headed by Jake Keller will be put on as an extra bill for the crowd at 7:30 o'clock.

Not much is known of the ability of the Ottawa team, and the game will be more interesting on that account, for when two teams clash without any previous dope on their relative strength, a battle royal is usually the outcome. Ottawa has a reputation for good basketball players and the team coming here may be loaded with the best from that town.

Coach Bacome gave his squad a stiff workout Monday night, following the defeat at St. Marys, and the men are going into the game tonight vowing not to lose. The work of the Grace boys at St. Marys was good and their defeat was not accounted to their playing, but to the serious handicap given them.

The Grace squad includes Bacome, Stepleton (Capt.), Bowersock, Red. Grant, Baumgardner and Zurnehly, all of whom have shown good calibre under Coach Bacome's guidance. Neither Baumgardner nor Zurnehly have as yet been given a chance to show their mettle against visiting teams, but it is assumed that they can go into the lineup any time and give a creditable showing. Manager Cleveland has been working hard to get a schedule of games whereby the Grace boys will meet some of the best teams in this part of the state.

Last year fans were given great basketball in the contests at the Grace gym and judging from the crowd that witnessed the Piquette Grace game, capacity houses will greet each game played at this popular South Side floor.

Cadets To Journey To Napoleon

After the Ellerman Cadets open their season on their home floor here next Tuesday evening, they will journey to Napoleon the following night to take on the fast representative aggregation of that place. The Napoleon five performed here last season with the White Stars as their opponents and a speedy game was furnished the fans.

In a game played here last season, the Cadets made such a remarkable showing that they were booked for a return engagement.

The local management has not as yet announced who will be the attraction for the opening game next Tuesday, but is trying to secure one of the best teams on the market.

Thorpe is Loser In Fast Bout

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22.—Benny Leonard, New York lightweight, knocked out Harvey Thorpe, of Kansas City, here last night just ten seconds before the bell would have rung to end their 12-round contest. Thorpe was in a bad way long before the bout was half over. Leonard had hammered him all over the ring and his mouth, nose and left eye were bleeding freely from the fifth round on. Leonard called upon Thorpe's seconds to quit, but the Kansas Citian protested vehemently and gamely remained to take a beating although convinced he had no chance.

FULTON SEEMS MOST LIKELY CANDIDATE FOR WILLARD

FRED FULTON

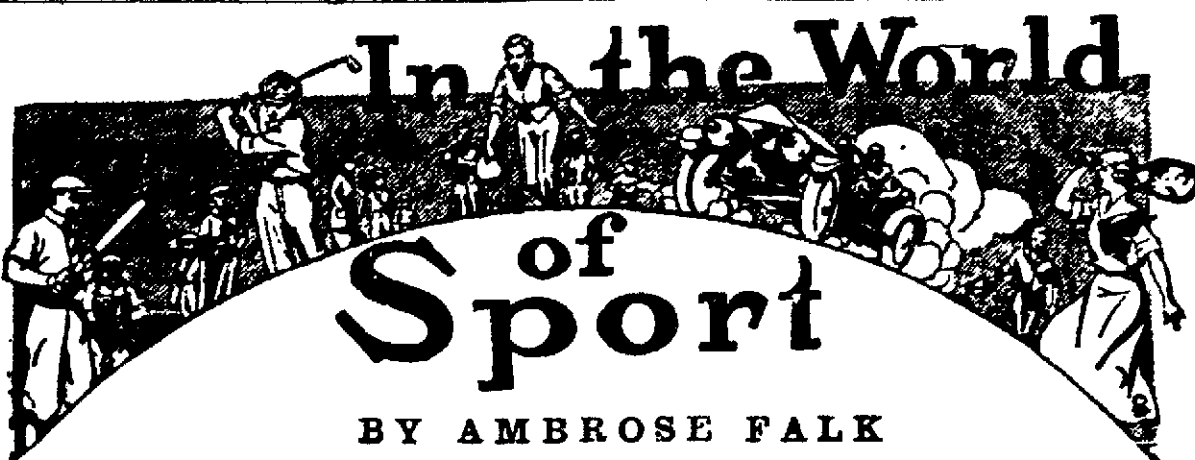

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Fans of the fight world generally believe that Fred Fulton is the most logical candidate for the honor of contesting with Jess Willard for the world's championship. "Tom" Jones, who manages most of Mr. Willard's affairs, has no objection to Fulton, provided it can be made worth while for the Willard outfit. "We will battle Fulton or anybody else," says Jones, "if they can make it worth our while." And there you have it. Jones doesn't think Dillon has much chance of meeting Willard. He thinks that Dillon has had a reversal of form lately, and refers to his Levinsky and Gibbons affairs. Besides, in Mr. Jones' opinion, Dillon's small stature would make a Willard-Dillon fight absurd.

Hammer Floored in 8th Round

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 22.—Joe Welling took Ever Hammer to a tasty losing in their 10-round bout here last night and thereby erased a black mark which the bristling blonde put on the Welling record in their other encounter a year ago. Welling had the better of six rounds, three of them by a large margin, three rounds were even and Hammer could have been given the sixth, although Welling was by no means in distress then. Two knock-downs in the eighth removed any doubt as to the final result. One was a fluke in that Hammer slipped just as Welling poked him and took advantage of it to rest while the count was being made. The men weighed 135 pounds ringside.

Harvard Is Given hard Workout

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—Harvard's squad was put through the final fierce scrimmaging here today in preparation for the tussle on Saturday with Yale. After today's work of the Crimson warriors will be light, consisting almost wholly of signals, punting, dropping and the throwing and catching of forward passes.

Resta To Retire?

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 22.—Indication that Darlo Resta will retire from the auto racing game at the request of his wife is seen in the fact that he announced today that he would not take part in the Thanksgiving day race at Ascot. He will appear at the track and receive the trophies emblematic of the speed championship and leave to the lesser fry to fight it out on the track.

Captain Of Yale Squad Improving

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—Captain Black "Pepper Box" of the Yale team, is recovering today from the attack of grippe and tonsillitis which sent him to the infirmary yesterday. His physicians said they would have him in shape for the big battle Saturday against Harvard. All of which came as cheering news to the supporters of the bulldog who were thrown into panic when they first learned of the illness of the fighting Eli leader.

Betting on Sat Game about even

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Even money that Ohio State defeats Northwestern on the foot ball field, is going begging around Chicago for some unknown reason. Just how good the Purple is has not been revealed in any of the Northwestern games so far and when the team lines up against the Buckeyes next Saturday some surprises that are not down on the books are quite likely to be unlimbered. If the line holds Ohio will find itself in a serious predicament. If it does not the purple's chances will be greatly diminished. This seems to be the situation in a nutshell.

Meanwhile real interest is centered in the Chicago-Minnesota game here Saturday. The Gophers undoubtedly are one of the best teams ever developed in the conference, a team that was prevented from grabbing the title by a defeat at the hands of Illinois, which hasn't done anything since. The Gophers are strong in every department and the forward passing of the team, apparently reckless, has been one of the most perfect exemplifications of this method of advancing ever shown on a field in the middle west. Just what the Maroons will be able to do with such a team is the absorbing question. Meanwhile Illinois is working desperately to beat Wisconsin at Madison and redeem itself for what has not been a brilliant season. The team leaves Urbana for Madison tomorrow night.

Indiana and Purdue are getting ready to battle each other, but the game is not attracting any except local interest.

Fulton Looks Like Match For Willard

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 22.—If Jess Willard, heavyweight champion of the world, is spooling for a scrap, as he is reported by Manager Tom Jones, he needn't look any further than Rochester, Minn. One Fred Fulton, who lives there, also is achieving for a quarrel. And Willard's statement that there is no one fit for him to clinch with, notwithstanding, Fulton just now looks up as a real contender for the heavyweight laurels.

"Fulton will be the heavyweight champion before the end of 1917," says a veteran Chicago sporting writer. "That is, if he gets Willard into the same ring with him."

He had just returned from the ringside at Eau Claire, Wis., and had seen Fulton demolish Andre Anderson, the big Swede, in two short rounds. It was a new Fulton he and the other spectators saw in action. How and where Fulton got the sudden improvement which was manifest in the all too short scrap with Anderson has not been told, but it is there, and if he engages in a battle with Willard those who are accustomed to trail along with a champion in all his fights would do well to think twice before betting the family jewels on Willard.

Fulton always was big and he had the reach. Now he has developed speed on his feet, clever ring generalship and punching ability. His ring posture is similar to that of Bob Fitzsimmons in his palmy days, he strikes out with terrific force from the shoulder and his body is behind the punch. It is deadly and it is accurate. His confidence is great and he awaits only the end of Willard's circus contract to start a campaign for a match with him. Willard, should they meet—and there are several persons angling

Nelson Arrested

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 22.—Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, graced a cell in the police station here last night when he tried to get into the Welling-Hammer contest on the strength of his reputation. Denied admission he bought tickets for himself and a friend, but used such abusive language he was refused admission. The fighter then did a little more harsh talking and a policeman led him away. The fight was half over before friends learned of the Battler's predicament and effected his release.

FIGHT RESULTS.

NEW YORK—Marty Cross, local lightweight, defeated Farmer Sullivan of Brooklyn in ten rounds. Mike McTigue outpointed Tex Kelly in 10 rounds.

BOSTON—Jack Britton of New York won the decision over Charlie White of Chicago in 12 rounds.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Benny Leonard, New York lightweight, knocked out Harvey Thorpe, of Kansas City, in the twelfth round.

MARKETS

MARKET IS STRONG BUT CLOSES WEAK

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Although there were irregular changes at the opening of the stock market today, with some issues showing losses on initial transactions, the tone was strong and at the end of the first 15 minutes substantial gains were recorded in many issues. American Beet Sugar was the most prominent feature, advancing $\frac{1}{4}$ to 108 $\frac{1}{2}$. Corn Products sold as low as 26 at the start, against 27 $\frac{1}{2}$ yesterday, but in the next few minutes it jumped to 28. U. S. Steel common gained $\frac{1}{4}$ to 127 $\frac{1}{2}$. In the late forenoon some stocks sustained substantial losses while others made vigorous advances but the tone was generally regarded as strong with nearly all the leaders in demand. The wider movements were in the specialties. American Writing Paper preferred declined $\frac{3}{4}$ points to 68 $\frac{1}{2}$, and American Beet Sugar, after making a new high record of 108 $\frac{1}{2}$, dropped to 107 $\frac{1}{2}$. Chandler Motor jumped 7 points to 116, Maxwell 2 to 78 $\frac{1}{2}$, St. de-baker $\frac{3}{4}$ to 127 $\frac{1}{2}$ and Allis Chalmers 2 points to 45.

Guilty

A young fellow who was the crack sprinter of his town—somewhere in the South—was unfortunate enough to have a very dilatory landlady, one evening, when he was out for a practice run in his rather airy and abbreviated costume, he chanced to shamble past the house of a dusky lady, who at the time was a pile of sticks in arrears with his washing. He had scarcely reached home again when the bell rang furiously and an excited voice was wafted in from the porch: "Foh de Lawd's sake! Won't you tell Marce Bob please not to go out no more till I kin git his clothes round to him!"—Harper's Magazine.

WIRELESS FOR WOMEN.

The fact that a large number of women in the war zone are rendering valuable service as wireless operators, has emphasized the fact that wireless telegraphy is a vocation to which women can easily adapt themselves. Miss Kathleen Parkin, of San Rafael, Calif., recently received a first grade radio operator's license from the United States government. She is only 15 years old and in her third year of high school. Miss Granelia Parker, of Florida, is the first woman to act as universal operator. She is in charge of the radio set of the Clyde liner Mohawk. When the navy department recently issued its country-wide call for wireless operators who would be available in time of war, a large number of women answered, among them, social leaders in several cities. Wireless operating was an important branch of the work of the Women's Preparedness Camps during the past summer and a number of competent operators are available as a result.

BENNETT ENDORSES NEW METHODS FOR SABBATH SCHOOLS

Urges Digression from Lessons as a Means of Creating Interest in Work.

McElfresh Will Address the Sunday School Institute on Important Topic.

The best teacher to be secured, introduction of every new and up-to-date method and a warm welcome was set forth by the Rev. Joseph Bennett of Sistriville, West Va., as some of the means for retaining pupils in the Sunday school after they have reached the adult age. The Rev. Mr. Bennett was one of the specialists brought to Lima to address the Sunday school institute at Trinity Methodist church this week, afternoon and evenings.

He has been in many Sunday schools over the country and has studied their methods with adult pupils, in which he specializes. He has been teacher of this department of the Sunday school for many years. He urged special efforts, such as socials, digression from the lessons to bring out practical religious helps, fishing trips and excursions to create interest and attendance among the men.

This afternoon Dr. Franklin McElfresh of Columbus, spoke and he will give the lecture tonight on a timely topic of interest to Sunday school workers. Mrs. W. D. Van Vorhis of Parkersburg, West Va., elementary Sunday school specialist, will speak Thursday afternoon and evening. Dr. Wright lectures on Friday afternoon and evening.

JURY FINDS HALL GUILTY AS CHARGED

Decision of Twelve Men is Reached After Thirty-five Minute Deliberation.

Densmore and Fox Trials to be Heard Next Monday Under Venue Change.

Count Stands Two Convictions to a Disagreement in Favor of Prosecutor Barr.

After deliberation of 35 minutes, the jury which Monday and Tuesday heard the trial of the State of Ohio against Eddie Hall, at Ottawa, returned a verdict of attempted assault against Sheriff Sherman E. Eley of Lima. Hall was indicted for attacking the sheriff, with intent to lynch Charles Daniels, colored, on the night of August 30. The jury took the case at the close of court yesterday afternoon. They had returned their verdict and members of the jury were ready to leave for the Crow supper in Columbus Grove, shortly afterward. Sentence is from one to ten years, in the state penitentiary.

Prosecutor Ortho O. Barr said this morning he was well pleased with the verdict and the action of the Putnam county jury. Sentiment against the rioters runs high there, because, it was with hard work and only the prompt action of prominent men of Putnam county, that lynching of the negro and sheriff did not occur within that territory, after Sheriff Eley had been given the wild ride to Ottawa that night. Daniels was then in jail in Ottawa, but news of the wrath of the crowd caused the negro to be spirited away.

Hall is the third of the men to be tried indicted on assault with attempt to lynch a prisoner. Milton Spyker, first tried in Allen county, was found guilty of attempted assault.

The jury in the case of George Saxby, indicted on a like charge, disagreed. Hall was found guilty, as was Spyker. Witnesses for the state, on the stand, testified that Hall was on the telephone pole at High and Main streets and held the rope which dangled from the pole for adjustment about the sheriff's neck. Sheriff Eley positively identified Hall as the man who was on the pole and placed the rope there for use in lynching him.

Hall in his testimony, did not deny he climbed the pole, but said he did so to escape the angry mob which had gathered.

Cases of Agnes Densmore and Gilbert Fox, indicted on a charge as was the three men previously tried, will be heard in court next Monday. Change of venue has been granted and their trials will be held in Ottawa. The court has appointed Attorney L. E. Ludwig to defend them.

Re-trial of Saxby's case has been asked by Prosecutor Barr at Ottawa. No action upon change of location for this trial has been granted.

KITCHEN OPERATED BY CITY, SUPPLIES THOUSANDS DAILY

Half Cologne's Population Gets Food From Municipal Restaurant.

Tickets Sold for 50 Cents, Entitling Holder to Six Meals a Week.

COLOGNE, Nov. 21.—The municipality of Cologne is today the biggest restaurant in the world. It feeds, six days a week, nearly half of its population of about 700,000 persons at the astonishing price of two marks (fifty cents) a week for six square meals. It supplies the food from a "kitchen" that has cost millions to construct, and delivers it by means of hundreds of teams and automobiles in utensils that alone represent an investment of thousands.

To do this it has to employ all in all several thousand people, whereby it also does good because it thus gives employment to people who need it. It invests, weekly and monthly, thousands of marks and manages to break about even on the investment.

There is a system of housing potatoes, which play a very important part of course in feeding 300,000 odd persons. Then there is the drying or evaporation plant. The supply of vegetables and fruit is at all times irregular, not only because of the seasons but also because of transportation and other questions. Where formerly Cologne ate what came and cared comparatively little about the morning, it now realizes that no single ounce of food may be wasted, and it prevents such waste by drying and preserving for future use each extra pound of apples and plums, of lettuce and cabbage, that arrives and is not eaten at once.

All Wastage Saved.
Perhaps most novel of all the "side features" is that part of the city kitchen where wastage is saved. It reminds one of the Chicago packer who boasted that he knew how to make use of every part of the pig but the squeal. Not only from the ordinary wastage from food prepared at the city kitchen but from garbage carefully collected all over the city there is now extracted a certain percentage of material that, in dry form, can be used for human consumption again. In addition of course there is a large percentage that goes for feeding swine, and lastly there is extracted a substance used with excellent results for "horse bread", a food that looks not unlike dark-colored bread and that is said to form an excellent complement to the present scanty supply of oats.

Cologne's city kitchen came into being not long after the war started. It was especially necessary for a number of reasons. Cologne is the biggest city anywhere near the front, and as such receives daily and weekly swarms of men who either are on their way to the fighting, or are returning from it. The normal population is constantly swollen by an artificial population that must be taken into account.

At first the kitchen—which began by sending out wagonloads of food for distribution on the many streets—was hardly a success. The people were inclined to look askance at the novelty. Gradually, however, they took to it, once they found that the food was good, nutritious and tasty. Immediately another problem arose, that of distributing the food in such a way that long lines of people would not gather in the narrow streets of the city, and clog transportation.

As the number of people taking advantage of the wholesome noonday meal increased, gradually by leaps and bounds authorities hit upon the scheme of subscriptions, and that plan is in force today. The citizens who wish to patronize the restaurant of his city now subscribes by the week, and at a stated hour each day one of the municipal wagons appears, bearing the food in tightly sealed, heat-retaining cuns, as warm as it was when it left the kitchen perhaps an hour before.

The kitchen, originally a manufacturing plant, has been so thoroughly rebuilt and rearranged that its former occupants would no longer recognize it.

Each day's meal (Sunday is excepted) consists in the main of a thick soup or stew of which the component parts are an almost infinite variety of vegetables, potatoes and meat. The preparation is accomplished with a regard for cleanliness that could hardly be excelled in the kitchen of any fine hotel or private home.

Machines Peel Potatoes.
Potatoes, brought in from the railroad or from the store houses of the city, are dumped into a trough through which water flows, and borne along and up to a height of some eight feet over a winding screw. This process removes most of the surface dirt. From the height they fell into an ingenious machine that peels them with great exactitude, and from this they pass through another water-filled trough to where women stand with knives and cut out the eyes.

After the hand work is finished the potatoes once more go into a trough that fairly boils with water constantly in motion, and pass under a derender, while being washed once more, to a second ladder up which they climb to a slicer. Thence they go to the kettles.

In another portion of the building a somewhat similar process goes on with the vegetables. They, too, are washed, not once but many times, and then are cut up, washed again, passed from one machine to another, until at last they are ready for the kettles. Meat that comes in on huge trucks shares the same fate, passes through a chopper that cuts it into cubes, and thence onward through a washing machine to the kettles.

The principal wastage from potatoes of course is the part that clings to the peelings and to extracted eyes. To save this a special machine has been invented and the astonishing amount of potato substance thus saved is dried and later utilized for food in some way or other.

The kitchen refuse that comes into the plant in huge wagon loads goes through a variety of drying processes, and through a machine equipped with magnets that automatically extract all foreign substances of metal. Their number and variety is astonishing, and they range from hairpins to tin cans, and include bottle tops, coins, wire and a hundred other things.

The kitchen refuse thus "put through the mill" not only yields a brownish flaky substance but has an odor not dissimilar to glue, but many chemicals as well which are vital to the food or horses and cattle.

Make Stock Feed.
The men in charge of the scientific end of the establishment have discovered the great value of marsh grasses, even of weeds, because of the high percentage of protein that many of them contain. So now, in addition to human food, and refuse, and animal food, Cologne is busily collecting all the available rank grasses which cattle never would touch, and in the drying department of the kitchen is extracted chemicals from them and inserting them in animal foods consisting in part of one-time garbage.

The drying or evaporating establishment is a huge building that once used to be a malt brewery. Just now it is at the height of its activity of course because vegetables and fruit have been pouring into it all summer long. Women, for the most part, do the work, which consists chiefly of sorting carefully the apples and the plums, the cabbages and lettuce, after they have been dried out. All are packed away against use this winter.

Cologne at present possesses 216 potato store houses, the largest of which is in a part of the old fortifications of the city. None of the 216 were constructed according to their present specifications until the city had learned a costly lesson in 1914, a lesson that cost just about an even third of all its available storage potatoes.

U. S. Opens Bids For 150 Hydroaeroplanes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The war department today opened bids for 150 hydroaeroplanes, to cost approximately $2,000,000 which will form the first comprehensive aerial defense for the United States' coasts. The machines are to be divided between the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts.

The machines, bi-planes and tri-planes, are to be capable of carrying a pilot and an observer and two machine guns, one in front and one in the rear. They must have from 170 to 200 horsepower (with two motors), and be capable of a sustained flight of six and one-half hours.

The specification call for ability to arise from rough water, against a seven-mile-an-hour wind, in one and one-half minutes, and with no wind, to rise within 1,000 feet from the starting point.

The aviation section of the signal corps contemplates the acquisition of enough of the machines to man the coast defenses of both Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The machines will be of a type more powerful than any yet used.

Eighteen hundred enlisted men have been authorized for the aviation section, and their enlistment is now under way. These men will be mechanics, chauffeurs, artisans, and the soldiers necessary to keep up the active aero squadrons and maintain the school system.

With the publication of the general order regarding the tentative organization of the aviation section, a strenuous attempt will now be made to acquire suitable personnel for the officer's reserve corps and the enlisted reserve corps, with a view of the forming reserve squadrons as rapidly as possible. The type of these men must be high, both mentally and physically. They must be responsible men.

Prominent manufacturers are now establishing schools, with equipment and instructors who come up to government requirements for teachers of aeronautics.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y. — "For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired, I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under a operation, but I did not want to go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation." — Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.
